EDGEWOOD CAMPUS SCHOOL

2009-2010
Annual Report

The relationship between Edgewood Campus School and the Sisters of St. Therese of Lisieux of Tanzania Africa began 20 years ago. In 1990, through private funding, Sister Hellen Bandiho arrived in Madison to obtain her undergraduate and graduate degrees in business at Edgewood College. Sr. Margaret O'Brien, OP found room and board for Sister Hellen with the Dominicans who resided at Blessed Sacrament Convent where Sister Kathleen Malone, OP lived at the time. Sr. Hellen was invited to live with the Sisters, and the friendship between the Campus School and the African Sisters began.

Sr. Hellen's goal while here was to further her education and at the same time raise the funds to bring another ten Sisters to study here. She exceeded that goal many times over and today Sisters of St. Therese of Lisieux are being educated in Milwaukee at Alverno College and throughout the United States.

Sister Hellen continued her studies and was awarded her PhD in 1999 from Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, PA. She returned to Tanzania and served on the General Council of the Order. She is now Dean of the School of Business at St. Augustine University of Tanzania.

The special friendship between Sr. Kathleen and Sr. Hellen has flourished and grown to include the families, students, and faculties at both Edgewood Campus School in Madison and St. Therese School in Dar es Salaam.

The piece of art used on the cover of this Annual Report was a gift to Sister Kathleen. It is made from pressed tree bark and dried palm leaves.

This porcelain doll-like figure of the Christ child is a mystery to us. It is about 10" long and has a stamp on the back that may read "made in Spain." It has always been stored with the Goebel crèche that was in the kindergarten room from 1953 to 1993.

If you remember this figurine and know its story, please share it with us.

a Sinsinawa Dominican sponsored school

Sponsorship

As sponsors, the Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa have solemnly pledged themselves to influence the ongoing development of Edgewood Campus School. By canon law, the elected leaders of the Congregation of Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa are responsible for representing their mission — to preach and teach the Gospel — in each institution they sponsor. They provide encouragement, mission enhancement, education, consultation services, and support for both the spiritual and structural dimensions of the school.

Local leaders, board members, administrators, faculty, and friends partner with the Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters to carry out their mission. The Sisters make regular visits to the sponsored institutions, seek input and foster relationships with the schools. They see, hear and share in the lives of those whom they serve.

Mission

Edgewood Campus School offers children a quality Catholic education with an emphasis on the Sinsinawa Dominican values of truth, compassion, justice, community and partnership, enabling graduates to continue service-oriented, lifelong learning.

Venerable Father Samuel Mazzuchelli, OP

Founder of the Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa

Samuel Mazzuchelli, born in Milan, Italy, on November 4, 1806, descended from a wealthy family of merchants and bankers. At age 17, Samuel entered the Dominican Order of Preachers against his father's wishes and at a time when the Order was struggling.

This remarkable Italian-American, at the age of 22, came to the American frontier in 1828. After his priestly ordination, he was assigned by Cincinnati Bishop Edward Fenwick to be missionary priest of the whole Northwest Territory.

Father Mazzuchelli traveled this vast area on horseback, in native canoes, and on foot to serve the people scattered on the vast Northwest frontier, from the Great Lakes to the Mississippi and beyond. His travels took him into southwestern Wisconsin, northern Illinois and eastern Iowa. Those who called him to ministry were families of native tribes, and new immigrant settlers, miners, and farmers, as well as political leaders, Catholics, and Protestants.

In September 1844, he purchased 800 acres of land in the southwest corner of Wisconsin, which is now the Sinsinawa Mound. That became the motherhouse for the Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters, the order he founded in 1847.

He established many local parish communities that remain to this day. He designed and built more than 24 churches and civic buildings before his death in 1864 at the age of 57. From that time until now, increasing numbers of people have asked his help in prayer.

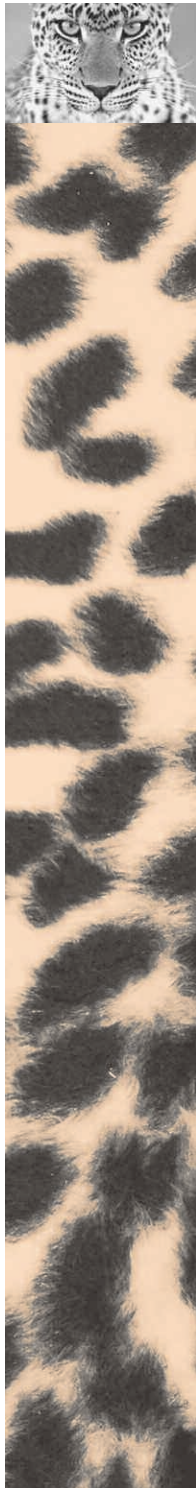

On July 6, 1993, His Holiness Pope John Paul II declared Father Samuel Mazzuchelli "Venerable." This is the first step to canonization or official Church recognition of his sanctity. Rome formally acknowledged that his virtues were heroic: "Beyond doubt" Father Samuel exemplified the theological virtues of faith, hope, and charity and the cardinal virtues of prudence, justice, fortitude, and temperance. The title "Venerable" was granted in response to a formal request made to Rome 30 years before, in 1964. We are now praying that Rome will name him "Blessed," the second step toward canonization or sainthood.

The Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters continued to thrive and grow. New missions proliferated, a pattern that would continue into the 20th century. Five academies were founded, and parish grade schools were assigned to the Congregation in Chicago, Milwaukee and throughout Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Today the Order sponsors seven schools: Dominican University in River Forest, IL, Queen of Peace High School in Burbank, IL, Dominican High School in Whitefish Bay, WI, Bethlehem Academy in Faribault, MN, as well as Edgewood College, Edgewood High School and Edgewood Campus School.

Board Chairperson's Letter

As I finish my tenure on the Edgewood Campus Board of Trustees, it is with great pride that I give my final report as Chair.

It is my firm belief that our future is bright and our mission, crystal clear. Creating a values-based education for our students is our primary focus and it is with the support of Sister Kathleen, Joyce Wodka, faculty, staff and parents that we are able to provide an environment of lifelong learning. We have provided a beautiful new addition to our school that will support our educational efforts for years to come, and have done so while maintaining the fiscal integrity of our school.

The Board of Trustees has worked to establish financial stability, strong enrollment numbers and a strategic plan that will serve the future of Edgewood Campus School. Our future is framed by our mission and is the backdrop of every decision made. An equally important part of serving that future is developing leadership and we have worked very hard to put in place that outstanding leadership. We ask each of you to consider how you can continue to contribute to this important mission and we thank the many volunteers who support ECS and its leadership, each and every day.

I have appreciated the opportunity to work side by side with so many of you and this is why I am confident that our future is bright. Edgewood Campus School holds a very special place in my heart and that of my family and for this we are grateful, knowing we have received more than we have given.

President's Letter

The Beatitudes were the school-wide theme for the 2009-2010 school year. Each Beatitude begins with the words “Blessed are they who....” I have my own groups of those I call “blessed.” Here are a few and I know that Jesus will forgive my adaption of His words because I am sure He would agree.

“Blessed are the students of Edgewood Campus School” for they are thriving academically, physically, and spiritually. They have given service to many causes and continue to carry on a tradition that was begun in 1990 when we started our annual fundraiser—the Tanzania walk. The money, originally collected to help the Sisters of St. Therese obtain an education in the U.S., eventually helped build a Pre-school to grade 7 primary school in Dar es Salaam, with over 700 students. In the summer of 2009, Joyce Wodka and I traveled to Africa to visit this school and see the more than 20 Sisters that we have helped. It was easy for us to see how much could be accomplished with the $5,000 to $7,000 that we sent each year. They are still growing and have plans to add a secondary school.

“Blessed are the parents of Edgewood Campus School” because they understand our mission and support the work begun by the Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters in 1881. They choose Edgewood Campus School for the values that guide us; truth, compassion, justice, community and partnership. They continually offer to help on committees, the Board, the playground and lunchroom. They raise money for our programs and school improvement. Without our parental support we could not remain viable.

“Blessed are our donors and alumni” because they reach into their pockets even when the economy makes it seem impossible. They made possible the new wing we added to our school, the renovations of the kindergarten classrooms and the furnishings that enhance the learning spaces.

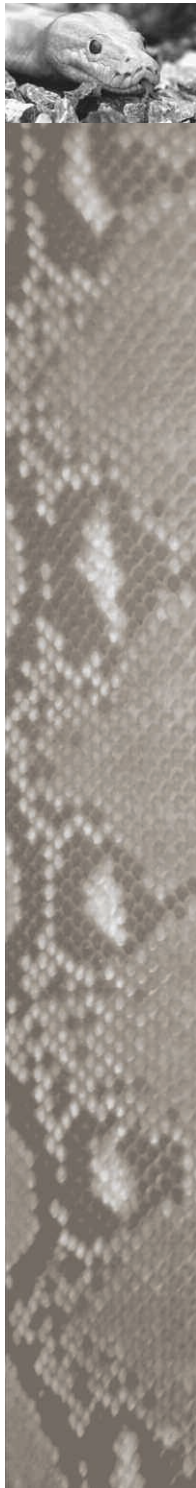

“Blessed are our faculty and staff,” the people for whom working at Edgewood Campus School is more than just a job and a paycheck. It is part of their mission, service to God and an expression of their love of teaching...always going above and beyond.

If you are reading this annual report, it is a pretty good bet that you fall into one of the “blessed” categories. I pray that God will hear my prayers, bless each one of you for your past and future generosity and for holding Edgewood Campus School “blessed” in your mind and heart. To continue to thrive and prosper as we have since 1881 is due in no small part to you and I thank you. I feel “blessed” to be a part of the Edgewood Campus School community.

Sincerely,

Sister Kathleen Malone, OP

OVERVIEW

Edgewood Campus School is a private Catholic school founded in 1881 by the Dominican Sisters of Sinsinawa. The campus is located in Madison, WI on the northern shores of Lake Wingra. Edgewood Campus School, Edgewood High School and Edgewood College share the 55-acre Edgewood campus. Each institution has its own administration and Board of Trustees. The Schools of Edgewood work collaboratively in areas of curriculum planning, facilities, technology, community relations, development, work-study student placement, community service and teacher continuing education.

Campus School students attend classes in the Edgewood Campus School building, the Todd Wehr Edgedome, the Sonderegger Science Center and the Middle School within Edgewood High School. Liturgies are held at St. Joseph Chapel in Regina Hall at Edgewood College.

Athletic Committee

“Sports do not build character. They reveal it.” —John Wooden

The Edgewood Campus School Athletic Committee is a parent group that aids in the administration and organization of the athletic program. The committee is made up of volunteer parents, the Athletic Director, a faculty representative and an administrator.

The committee is responsible for orienting players and parents at the beginning of each season, explaining rules and regulations of each sport, and sharing the player/parent/coach expectations in regard to conduct, practice, facility use and responsibilities.

The Athletic Committee, which is self-supporting, develops an annual budget based on the participation fees and fund-raisers to cover the cost of the football, volleyball, basketball, track and softball programs for students in grades 5 through 8. Participation fees cover about 90% of the cost of equipment, facilities, officials and uniforms. Fund-raisers are held to meet the final budget. The athletic budget is about $25,000 per year.

The fund-raiser that supports the Athletic Committee is the sale of spirit wear.

Edgewood Campus School is a member of the Madison Area Independent Sports League (MAISL) competing with other local Catholic and independent schools in touch football, volleyball, basketball, softball and track. Participation in these athletic events is open to all boys and girls in 4th (track only), and 5th through 8th grade.

The goals of the athletic program at Edgewood Campus School include:

- to enrich the students’ experiences through pride in representing their school,
- to build teamwork,
- to promote good sportsmanship,
- to promote physical fitness, and
- to develop positive self-esteem.

At least 85% of the students in grades four through eight participate in the athletic program.

New All-Day Kindergarten for 4-Year-Olds

Beginning in the fall of 2009 the Campus School began offering an all-day kindergarten program for four-year-olds.

“We made this decision based on extensive research on the current and future needs of the early learner,” stated Kathleen Malone, OP, President/Principal of Edgewood Campus School. “This enhanced program will be beneficial to both the students as well as the parents. We are responding to the needs of our community.”

The all-day four-year-old kindergarten program follows the Wisconsin Model of Early Learning Standards prepared by the Department of Public Instruction. It emphasizes spiritual, health and physical, social and emotional, language and communication development. The approaches to learning include curiosity, engagement and persistence, invention and imagination, and cognitive skills.

The core curriculum includes religion, language arts, mathematics, social studies and science. Special subjects include art, music, physical education, library, and technology. A guidance counselor provides a program that is designed to enrich students with various life skills.

Edgewood Campus School has been a pioneer in offering kindergarten to the early learner. School history tells stories of the four-year-old kindergarten that was developed and taught by Sister Mary Rosary, OP as early as 1941.

Auction

The 2010 Home & School annual social and auction, “MONOPOLY MANIA! & TRIVIA NIGHT” was held at the Edgewater Hotel on Saturday, February 20.

Each year the Home & School Organization is committed to raise at least $30,000 toward the school’s operating budget. At this annual social and auction, funds were raised through a silent auction and a live auction, raffles, and the sale of special items. During the Monopoly portion of the program, guests could send each other to jail for $25 and the prisoner paid $50 for a “Get Out of Jail Free Card.”

The “Fund-a-Cause” for this year was for SMART Boards. From the funds raised, we were able to furnish interactive whiteboards in several classrooms.

The volunteers for this event truly demonstrated the spirit of Edgewood Campus School and the power of service. We thank you.

Students Help Others

The Sinsinawa Dominican value of Compassion is an important component of the mission of Edgewood Campus School. All students participate in acts of service throughout the year organized by students themselves, by school staff or by parents.

In the middle school students learn to take a more proactive and independent approach to service. Students in 6th grade each select two projects involving service work, and 7th and 8th graders are required to give a minimum of 10 hours of community service each year.

During school year 2009-2010 the Campus School community contributed to:

- St. Vincent de Paul
 - Advent food drive: 5 barrels of food
 - Christmas Contribution: over 300 pair of pajamas, books and stuffed animals
 - Catholic Schools Week Food Drive: 4,817 pounds of food from Madison area Catholic schools
 - Catholic Schools Week Sock Hop: over 1000 pairs of socks
- Catholic Relief Services for Haiti Read-a-thon: $2,100

- Annual Tanzania Walk for St. Therese School in Tanzania, Africa: $7,000
- Scholastic “One For the Books” Program: monetary donations during our two Book Fairs that benefit Kids in Distressed Situations, Inc., the Kids In Need Foundation, and Toys for Tots.
- Rotary Books for the World: reading and science textbooks that were sent to schools in Central and South America and southern Africa

FUNDING

Edgewood Campus School is a private Catholic school (not affiliated with a parish) founded in 1881 by the Sinsinawa Dominican Sisters. With an operating budget of $2 million, about 85% is funded by tuition. To meet the budget, the remainder is raised through fund development (gifts of cash, stock, real estate, life insurance and bequests) and through various fund-raising campaigns run through the Home and School Organization and the Athletic Committee.

TUITION

TUITION ASSISTANCE

A small amount of financial aid is available at Edgewood Campus School for need-based tuition assistance. Families are eligible to apply for assistance after they have been at Edgewood Campus School for at least one year. Applicants must complete an income disclosure form. Students of these families must be making satisfactory academic progress and have a positive attitude that reflects our values of truth, compassion, justice, community and partnership. Families must re-apply for tuition assistance each year. The amount given will not cover the full cost of tuition.

Delanie Kinney, grade 5, carried her father's Edgewood High School leather gym bag for Spirit Day during Catholic Schools Week. Ed Kinney is ECS class of 1985 and EHS 1989.

Alex Fochios, 7th grade, won a blue ribbon at the Southwest Regional Art Exhibit. Her self-portrait in oil pastel was exhibited at the Wisconsin Youth Art Month Capitol Exhibit at the Capitol Rotunda. The art exhibition was sponsored by the Wisconsin Art Education Association.

Home & School Organization

“Those who can, do. Those who can do more, volunteer.” —Author Unknown

The Home & School Organization is the parent group that serves two functions at Edgewood Campus School.

The first is to build a sense of community at the school. It is very important that families who are new, as well as those who have been at ECS for some time, feel a part of our community. A mentor family welcomes each new family to guide them through the first year at the Campus School. Home & School hosts a New Parent Orientation meeting before the first day of school and a fall School Picnic helps kick off the new school year.

Fund raising is the second mission of the Home & School Organization. Each year the parent group is committed to raising at least $30,000 toward the operational budget of the school. The annual fund-raising calendar includes drives and events like: school supply sale, Innisbrook gift-wrap sale, cinnamon bread sales, SCRIP and the annual Auction.

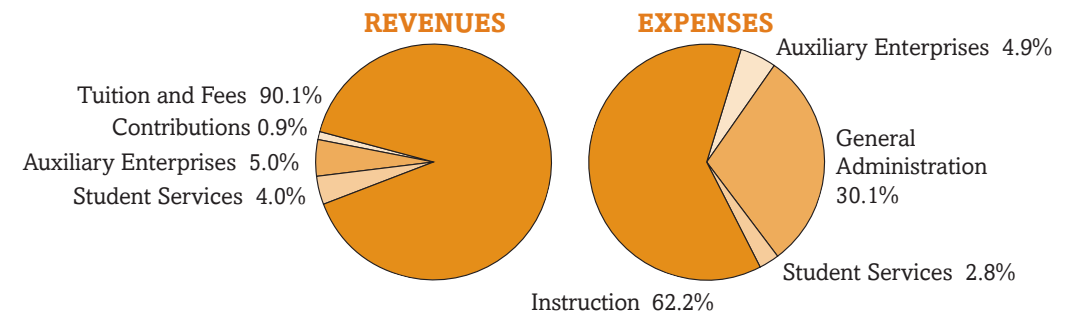

Edgewood Campus School is blessed with an amazing group of parent volunteers who contribute time and talent on committees, in the classrooms, lunchroom and playground. Without the help of volunteers it would be difficult if not impossible for Edgewood Campus School to thrive and prosper. We are very grateful.

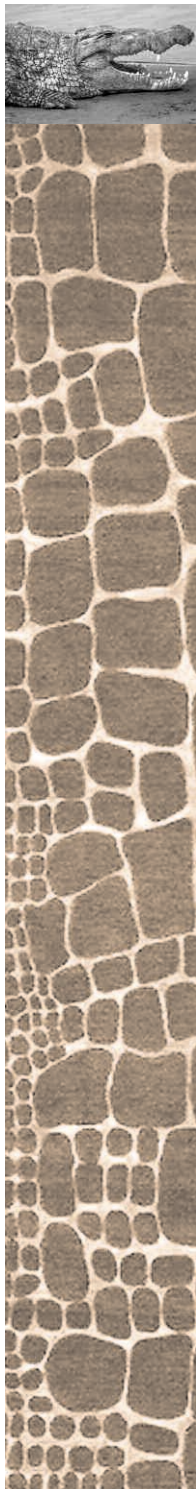

Eighth grade students Tristan Kuna, Cooper Napoli, Marie Avey and Anna Jacobsen represented the Campus School at a May event hosted by the Wisconsin Bar Association featuring retired Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. It was held to introduce Our Courts, an online education program about the American court system started by Justice O'Connor.

ANNUAL GIFT FUND DONORS

Edgewood Campus School and UW-Madison awarded National Science Foundation Grant!

WISCONSIN WEEK

NEWS IN BRIEF

November 4, 2009

Project CRYSTAL brings middle-school students to UW-Madison lab

Biochemistry professor Hazel Holden and Edgewood Campus School middle-school science teacher Daniel Toomey met for the first time because Holden's daughter was in Toomey's science class.

Neither anticipated that less than three years after their first encounter at the Madison school, they'd be working closely to bridge the gap between middle-school science and groundbreaking research, and to get young adolescents excited about chemistry before high school.

"We just thought we've got to teach chemistry at an earlier age, and we've got to make it exciting," Holden says. "By the time you get to high school, you've kind of set the path for what you want to do."

Realizing the potential a partnership between a middle-school science teacher and a biochemistry researcher would have for both the teenagers and Holden's lab, the two teamed up to form Project CRYSTAL (Crystallographers Researching with Young Scientists: Teaching And Learning).

The duo was awarded a grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) last April to bring six students from Edgewood Campus School to research X-ray crystallography alongside graduate students in Holden's lab.

Six students began their research at the beginning of the 2009–10 school year. They make the trip to the UW-Madison campus once a week to assist Holden and the graduate students in real-world research.

It gives young students an opportunity to learn that the world of science extends far beyond textbook experiments.

"A lot of what we do as science educators in K–12 is pretty much the cookbook labs where you know the results, and that's not science," Toomey says. "What the kids are realizing is you have to observe and you wait for your results, and they're probably not what you expected. I think that's the beauty of this for them, that they get a chance to realize that there's not always a clear-cut answer."

Project CRYSTAL also gives graduate students an unusual teaching opportunity, and the teaching assistants serve as role models for the students, since they are closer in age than most of their traditional teachers.

Seventh-grader Manpreet Kaur says, "I've always liked science, but I think it gives me a little bit more knowledge, and I'm definitely more into it than I was before."

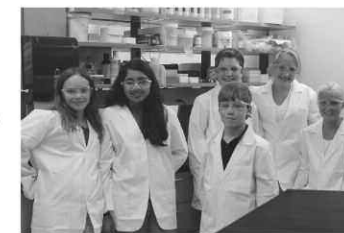

Every week, the six students blog about their experiences in the lab at <http://www.projectcrystal.org/crystallographers-researching-with-young-scientists-4/project-crystal-blog>.

Because Holden's lab has room only for six middle-schoolers, Toomey and Holden looked for ways to expose the rest of his students to chemistry.

In the NSF grant, the pair noted they would develop modules to teach a chemistry unit to Toomey's seventh- and eighth-graders.

The module includes an analogy comparing ice cream flavors to the periodic table, an introduction to the structure of molecules, compounds and atoms, and most notably, the chemistry of sugars and carbohydrates.

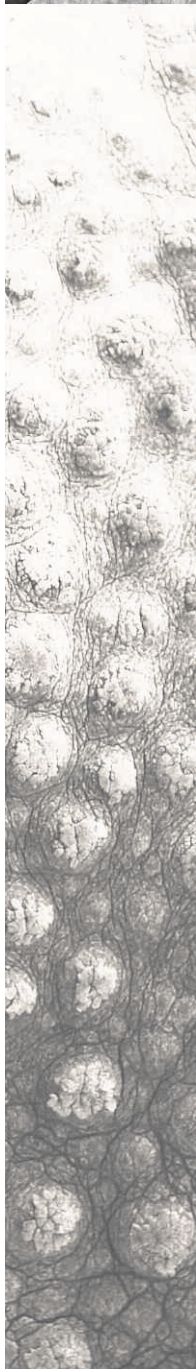

"We want to educate kids about making healthy choices so that when they're in whatever setting they're in, they'll use their chemistry knowledge to make healthy choices," says Toomey.

ECS students involved with the NSF Grant are left to right: Manpreet Kaur and Marie Avey, grade 7, and eighth graders Tristan Kuna and Claudia Noonan; and front Andrew Yontz and Katie Arneson, grade 6.

A warm welcome for Sister Kathleen and Joyce Wodka at Julius Nyerere International Airport in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania.

They returned to Edgewood Campus School in early August ready to begin a new school year with gifts and stories about the people in Africa who are praying for their students everyday. Each student at St. Therese School in Tanzania knows what Edgewood Campus School students have done for them and they are appreciative and grateful for the chance to receive an education.

In Africa, many children do not have the opportunity to go to school and many never leave the village or hut in which they were born. That is why the work of the Sisters of St. Therese is so amazing and worthy of support from Edgewood Campus School. They bring education to many children in Tanzania, who would not otherwise go to school. As long as Sister Kathleen Malone and Joyce Wodka are employees at Edgewood Campus School, this mission will continue. To have the opportunity to see in person what has been accomplished with the money raised by Campus School students has strengthened their resolve to make this a yearly mission project at Edgewood Campus School.

Friends Across the Ocean

Edgewood Campus School has had a special connection to the Sisters of St. Therese of Liseaux of Tanzania Africa for the past 19 years. In 1990, Sister Hellen Bandiho arrived in Madison to study at Edgewood College and live at Blessed Sacrament Convent. Sister Kathleen Malone was the Principal of the Campus School then. The two became close friends and as the friendship developed, it became obvious that the work begun in Tanzania by the Sisters of St. Therese was worthy of help by Edgewood Campus School and its students and faculty.

Since then Edgewood Campus School has conducted an annual fundraiser for Tanzania. In the beginning the money was used to help other Sisters who were brought to the United States for education. It paid for their books and school supplies. Later, some of the Sisters went back to Tanzania and opened a primary school in Dar es Salaam. To date, Edgewood Campus

Sister Kathleen and Joyce Wodka received hand-made traditional Tanzania dresses as a welcome gift from the St. Therese School faculty and students.

School has contributed over $50,000 to St. Therese School that has grown from one kindergarten class to educating more than 450 students in kindergarten through 7th grade.

Sister Hellen's dream when she arrived in Madison to begin her education was to find scholarship money to bring 10 Sisters to the United States for college degrees. She was able to bring over 20 to date and all of them have gone back to Tanzania to do amazing things. They are principals and headmistresses, physicians, a pharmacist, a dean, a General Council member, teachers, administrative staff and nurses.

Sister Kathleen Malone and Joyce Wodka, the Business Manager at Edgewood Campus School, befriended and welcomed many of these Sisters to the states and made sure they had school supplies, Christmas gifts, warm clothes and a place to call home in Madison. Over the years, when Sister Hellen comes back to Madison, to attend conferences, do mission appeals or search for scholarships at various colleges, she lives with Sister Kathleen and is a special guest at Edgewood Campus School.

In the summer of 2009 Sister Kathleen and Joyce Wodka made a long-awaited trip to Tanzania. They visited St. Therese School and all the places where the Sisters that they helped while in the U.S. are now ministering. The students at St. Therese welcomed them with a traditional celebration and feast. They are very grateful for all that Edgewood Campus School has done for them over the years. The words "Edgewood Campus School" are planted in flowers in their front lawn.

Everywhere they went, Sister and Joyce were treated with celebrations of gratitude for the help they had given the Sisters. They toured schools, visited convents, hospitals, villages and churches and were special guests of the Bishop of Dar es Salaam, Bishop Kilaini. They even had time for a three-day safari.

The trip was memorable in many ways. To see the people of Tanzania, many of whom lack the basic necessities of life such as clean water, sanitation and plumbing, be so happy, welcoming and generous to strangers, was awe inspiring.
