Face painting by staff members dressed up as a Star Wars Storm Trooper and various other costumes was a big hit with students and adults alike. Jumping castles in the intermediate cafeteria and outside in the courtyard had children lined up to get a chance to jump around with their friends! The fragrance of popcorn was in the air as staff popped up bags of popcorn on the basketball court for everyone! It was a night packed with families and children dressed up in their favorite costumes who all came out to enjoy the Halloween Carnival! SCUSD AND AZMERIT FIND ABSENTEEISM AS CAUSE OF LOW TEST SCORES

The Arizona Department of Education released the AzMERIT scores to the public. AzMERIT is the new state assessment that replaces the AIMS tests.

Unfortunately, students at San Carlos Unified School District did not do well on this new assessment. Less than ten percent of our students were proficient on the Arizona College and Career Ready Standards at their grade level.

Research has shown that the primary cause of such low academic achievement is poor school attendance. It is also a powerful predictor of which students will drop out of school before graduation.

The United States Department of Education has defined chronic absenteeism as missing 2 or more days per month or ten percent of the school year. That is the same as missing an entire month of school.

There were seventeen school days in the month of November. Forty-seven percent (nearly half) of our students missed at least two of those seventeen days.

Students who are frequently absent in Kindergarten or first grade are more likely to not be able to read at grade level by the third grade and are four times more likely to drop out before finishing school.

Regular attendance in high school is a stronger indicator of who will graduate than test scores.

A student who is chronically absent for any year at the secondary school (grades 7-13) is seven times more likely to drop out before graduation.

This is a national problem, but it is a problem we can do something about. Encourage your children and grandchildren to go to school every day.

If you receive a phone call from school telling you that your child has not attended that day, it is not because we are picking on you or your child. We want all students at San Carlos Unified School District to graduate and be successful adults. Attending school is one way we can help them do that.

RICE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CELEBRATES

READING CHALLENGE PROGRAM GOING STRONG AT RICE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Our Reading Challenge is going full force this year! We are so excited by the number of students who are now participating in turning in their reading logs and meeting the challenge of daily reading. We explain to our students that reading makes their brain smart so that when they grow up they will have many choices for their life.

Over the holiday we told students to read daily and THEY DID!!!! We had a large number of students who turned in Reading Logs for holiday reading and they earned a McDonald’s Happy Meal coupon for their efforts.

Our Pizza Hut coupon rewards are still being given each month. If a student in Pre k- 2nd grade turns in a weekly log with at least 70 minutes read, they earn a coupon. In grades 3-6 the time read needs to be 105 minutes. In addition, we had our Semester Reading Challenge Awards Ceremony on Jan, 26th to celebrate those students at every grade level who turned in weekly logs at least 80% of the time in the first semester. We will be having another end of the year celebration for those students who turn in reading logs 80% of the weeks for the second semester.

We have begun announcing the Reading Challenge winners each week on KYAY radio, Wednesdays from 3:00-4:00 pm. Please encourage your children to listen for this recognition weekly.

SCSS STUDENTS ATTEND ARIZONA CAREER CONSTRUCTION DAYS

Secondary school students in Mr. Klindt's Agriculture class get a chance once a year to attend the Arizona Career Construction Days in Phoenix, Arizona. This experience exposes the secondary students to construction careers, Whether it be welding, pipe fitting, cement laying, or working with nails and wood, these students got a chance to try their hands at what was offered at the event.

Employers from across the state of Arizona were there to offer the students opportunities to find employment with their companies after they graduated from high school. Many colleges were on hand to offer higher educational scholarships and other opportunities to students who were interested in majoring in construction in Arizona.

The students had fun exploring all the different trades available at the career construction days. Many students were excited to find trades that were fun and easy for them to work on during the demonstrations.

One thing that was for certain, our students were naturals at working with their hands and to complete the tasks set before them. Many employers were impressed with the San Carlos Secondary Students and encouraged them to go into the construction trades upon graduating from high school.

Congratulations to the secondary students who participated in this year's Arizona Career Construction Days!

PHYSICAL EDUCATION IS IMPORTANT FOR OUR KIDS!

Your third-grader has a math test today. It's 7:30 A.M. To help her do her best, you should...

- A. Give her a pep talk.
- B. Quiz her on the material.
- C. Turn on some music and challenge her to jump around for ten minutes.

Okay, it's a trick question, since all these strategies can be helpful. But if you answered C, you've aced the prep test -- and there's a very good chance your child will do well too.

We all know that regular physical activity is important for kids' health and reduces their risk of becoming overweight. However, the intriguing news is that it's also associated with higher academic achievement. A recent study by the Delaware Department of Health found that kids who were more physically fit generally performed better on reading and math tests than their less-active peers.

Studies suggest that physical activity during school is particularly powerful for kids. Researchers at the University of Rome found that when 8- to 11-year-olds exercised right before taking a test, they were better able to concentrate and their scores improved by an average of 10 percent.

Keep your children active at home and we will keep them active in school. Physical exercise helps exercise the body and the mind!

Most parents don't need a biology lesson to be convinced of this body-brain link. When Terri Copa's son, Ben, now 6, started kindergarten he would rather move around than sit still during class. So Copa, who had experienced "the wiggles" herself as a kid, decided to have Ben run a few laps around the house or do jumping jacks before school. She reported that he started coming home happier and that he said he had his "listening ears on today".

Physical exercise helps exercise the body and the mind!

HAPPY NEW YEAR PBIS!

As we start 2016 we need to look back and celebrate the many successes we have had in our school district since August 1, 2015. Administrator's and staff at all schools, as well as district office, have been working hard at implementing the Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (PBIS) system to address the needs of our students. Office discipline referrals (ODR's) for the month of December were significantly lower than last year at both our Elementary and Secondary schools. The primary goals of the PBIS system is to increase attendance, increase academic achievement in Reading and Math, increase graduation numbers, decrease office discipline referrals (ODR's), and decrease suspensions. By addressing the above goals, we will improve the climate of our schools and provide our students with a safe, nurturing environment where learning can take place. Through the decrease in ODR's and suspensions, our students are in the classroom receiving instruction rather than sitting in an administrator's office or in a suspension room. Additional data indicates that we need to continue to focus on attendance. Illness was a major contributor to our low numbers in November and December; however, we need to ensure that our student's who are not ill attend school. If our students are not at school, they do not receive instruction provided to the rest of the students, which impacts their overall success academically and often leads to misbehavior. Help us help your student to be as successful as they can possibly be - make sure they are in attendance every day!

Thank you for your support!

Deb Sefcik - SCTG/PBIS Project Director
